

Instructor – Catering and Hospitality

We are looking for an enthusiastic and innovative instructor or teacher for our Catering and Hospitality course. Successful applicants will be expected to design and deliver learning sequences which promote positive engagement with learning and generate a passion for Catering and Hospitality amongst the pupils. Applicants will also demonstrate a confident ability to form positive working relationships with young people and will be able to respond effectively to the needs of their pupils. This is an opportunity for a highly-motivated and ambitious colleague to deliver an exciting practical subject area which will make a significant impact on the outcomes for our pupils.

The Key is on a rapid journey towards becoming a Centre of Excellence for Building Resilience through the development of an attachment-focused and trauma informed community. As the newly appointed Catering and Hospitality instructor, you would join us during phase two of this journey; an extremely exciting time full of opportunity, ambition and aspiration for all members of our community.

All aspects of our teaching, learning and progress, along with our wider work with our young people are based on high expectations. We believe every pupil that arrives with us should make progress academically, socially and emotionally.

If you are strong-minded, emotionally resilient and determined to offer a high-quality curriculum, join us in the privilege we enjoy of working with very small groups of pupils, trying to change lives.

This is a part-time position for an unqualified teacher.
